strain: inest: Ohio is proud of her returning pat-riots. Men and women weep for joy. It is with no common pride that on behalf of the city and State we bid you welcome.— You have nobly earned a proud position in the great hereafter. You have written his-tory in blood with the point of the bayonet, that shall be read with joy long after This Company is now fully organized, and pre-pared to write First and Canco Birks. "Time to dust your frames shall wear."

A victorious Roman Army was went to return to their capital, dragging behind their triumphant chariots, their prisoners and victims, overawing the people and dic-tating law—placing by force a favorite gen-eral in power, and dividing up the lands of the Republic. Not so with our patriotic the Republic. Not so with our patrio army. After having conquered an empire, and astonished the world by their valor, the soldier returns to proudly take his position soluter returns to proudly take his position as a citizen, to enjoy under the law the fruits of his suffering and noble daring. We have watched you, soldiers of the 100th regiment, from the time you marched into Kentucky to meet Kirby Smith, to the loss of your career in the field. We trembled for you on that bloody march to At-Nashville and Franklin, and your closing abors in North Carolina.

But now, after all your toils are ended, and the rebellion, that commenced at Sum-er and culminated in the foul murder of the great and good Abraham Lincoln, has ignominiously ended, how sweet must be ur joy; how rich "the memories of the pust," the glories of the present, the pros-pects of the future.

I will not detain you. Receptions and speech making are mere empty shadows.— You are anxious to meet that kind mother, that loving sister, that fond wife and that happy maiden. These are these joys that now await you. Enter in and possess the land. God bless you.

When Mr. Slade had made an end of peaking, Lieut. Colonel Rundell, in lieu of a speech, called upon the boys to give three cheers, and let that answer for the gratitude and joy they felt in being thus honored. Whereupon three "enormous" cheers were given, which made the city ring in the moist, clear air. The boys then fell into line and marched over to camp, where they hope soon to receive their pay, and then be suffered to go to their respective waiting homes.

FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION .-- The Various sub-committees met at the Mayor's office last evening, to perfect arrangements for the celebration of the Fourth of July, G W. Calkins, in the chair.

MAIL ROBBER ABBESTED.-We learn that on Saturday last an Important arrest of a mail robber was made by Judge Rush R. Sloane, General Agent of the Postoffice Department. It appears that losses had been frequent on the mail route between Lancaster and Hebron, O., and after a thorough investigation of the offices on the route, the attention of Judge Sloane was directed to the mail carrier, and, after several trials, conclusive evidence of his guilt was at last found, and the carrier George W. Weakly, son and Wm. Wilcox and Captain F.R. | who was contractor on the route, was arrested at Lancaster. When the prisoner was confronted with the proofs against him, CLAIMS TO HAVE BEEN ROSSED .- H. A. Harker, of Peoria, Illinois, lately of the 26th New York Cavalry, arrived at the Home here yesterday. He had recently been paid off, and claimed that he had been robbed of $83 and his transportation. He pushed on to Toledo, on his way home. Soldiers are passing through every day, who make similar complaints. Doubtless most of their stories are true. The country swarms with cut-throats who will watch narrowly the movements of paid-off soldiers, and gobble up their hard-earned substance whenever opportunity offers. The boys must be wise as serpents and harmless as doves, if they would all got on well and avoid the nets of the crafty devils who have privily laid the same for the stumbling feet of whatever careless Johnnies are now marching home.
